Graduate Research Coordinator – Arts Initiative Scholars Program (Arts IN)

Graduate Research Mentor Position – 2019-2020 Academic Year

The Arts Initiative (Arts IN) Scholars Program supports students in specific arts-related research projects in cross-disciplinary partnerships, such as Arts IN Civic Engagement, Arts IN Education, Arts IN Global Health, Arts IN Labor, Arts IN Science, and Arts International. The program's objective is to mentor AAP undergraduate students who would normally not consider the arts as a viable area of study. Students receive academic and professional support over a required two-quarter commitment. AAP undergraduate students interested in pursuing graduate studies in the arts including education, activism, therapy, entertainment, production, and management are encouraged to apply.

The Coordinator for the AAP Arts IN Program offers tailored mentorship services to AAP students accepted into the cohort and who are interested in graduate or professional schools and/or careers in the arts. Activities include: reviewing program application materials and selecting the new cohort of Arts IN students; leading a weekly discussion section during Winter and Spring quarters about relevant issues in the arts, interdisciplinary work, and social justice; assisting student participants in exploring arts-related research opportunities-; assisting student participants in applying to graduate and professional school; assisting student participants in developing their graduate and professional school application materials; assisting student participants in preparing oral and poster presentations of their research projects. For more information on Arts IN, please visit our website at <http://aap.ucla.edu/#/mentoring/arts-initiative-arts-in-scholars-program/>.

Please note that this appointment is for the entire 2019 – 2020 academic year.
