Dear CCCP Family & Friends,

As you may all be aware, following news about the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) our campus, UCLA, transitioned to online instruction effective, March 11.

UCLA has taken the following measures to ensure the safety and well-being of students, faculty, staff and all campus community members.

- Suspending in-person classes wherever possible and transitioning to online platforms through the end of the Spring Quarter.
- Winter Quarter final exams will be offered remotely. Instructors have been asked to communicate with students how final exams, if applicable, will be offered without the need to assemble in person (for example, take home, online or other alternative formats).
- Students are encouraged to start the Spring Quarter remotely from home. University housing will remain open through Spring Break and beyond for those who need it.
- We’re transitioning over the next few days to cancel nonessential gatherings of more than 100 people.
- Campus remains open, including housing, hospitals, clinics and research laboratories.

CCCP will continue serving our transfer community and scholars while taking into account safety and health concerns for all. Until further notice, CCCP is not making any in-person visits to our partner campuses. At this moment, our office will remain open M-F 9am-5pm until further notice.

As we work with our community college campus partners and navigate campus adjustments, we appreciate your patience with regards to the schedules and availability of our full-time and student staff/peer mentors.

CCCP SCHOLARS PROGRAM/SUMMER PROGRAMS 2020-2021

At this time, all of our applications for summer programs remain open and we encourage you to continue to apply. All Program deadlines as listed on our website and publications will remain the same. Any changes to deadlines will be posted on our website and social media accounts.

At this time, any scheduled campus tours through our office from now through the end of the spring quarter have been postponed. As soon as we know more, we will be in touch to reschedule and revisit.

The health and well-being of our scholars, UCLA staff, community college partners, and families is always our utmost priority.

As more information, updates and modifications become available, we will be updating through our social media and email. Additionally, if you have any questions, contact one of our staff directly or send an email to cccp@college.ucla.edu. We are regularly monitoring the account and will respond as quickly as possible.

Thank you,
The UCLA Center for Community College Partnerships Staff
